

Jabreen the giant creator spirit

("The story of Jabree", n.d.)

Jabreen had been hunting and feasting on kuppai in the bushland of 'Little Tallebudgera'.

Tired from the day, Jabreen emerged from the bush and headed toward the ocean for a swim.

Leaving his Jabree on the shore, Jabreen swam out toward the horizon.

When he returned to collect the Jabree, the ground where it had been placed rose up, creating the rocky outcrop that marks Little Burleigh.

Jabreen lay down to rest on Jellurgal, which grew around the giant as he slept and captured him. He woke and tried to break free, but Jellurgal won out.
